New Problems and New Threats to Peace Become More Important

M'ARTHUR'S PROBLEM

Americans Do Not Favor Taking Industrial Plants As Reparations

(Russia looms big in the picture in Japan today, writes Howard Handelman, Tokyo Bureau Chief of International News Service, in the first of a series of five articles on the situation in the Far East. With Japan so thoroughly beaten that she cannot threaten world peace for a long time to come, American thinking in connection with the Japanese occupation has changed in the past year. Other nations are supporting Gen. MacArthur's insistence for an early peace treaty to keep the Japanese from flopping to the Soviet side.)

By Howard Handelman (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, Aug. 18.—(INS).—The war against Japan became an old-fashioned thing in the second year of the occupation.

New problems and new threats to peace became much more important to Americans than this country which has been so thoroughly whipped that it is no longer a danger to anybody, not for a long time. The emphasis on high levels, therefore, shifted from Japan to her northern neighbor, Russia, which has become the main factor in the American foreign policy.

Americans led the way in this new line of thought. Gen. Douglas MacArthur called for an early peace. He also pointed out that it probably would be unwise, from an American standpoint, to take industrial plants out of Japan as reparations because the United States eventually would have to replace those plants.

Other nations fell in line. The British refused to do anything in the Orient that might antagonize Americans.

Australia, loudest in expressed fears of a military resurgence in Japan, suddenly changed her tone. This month Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian Minister for External Affairs, issued a statement in which he agreed with everything Gen. MacArthur has proposed for Japan. Significantly, Dr. Evatt refused to endorse Gen. MacArthur's faith that democracy has come to Japan. He praised the occupation highly for what it has accomplished in the military realm, but was cautious about the political and economic achievements of the occupation.

His representative in Japan, W. MacMahon Ball, has set the pattern for this reserve that amounted to skepticism. Ball, British member of the Allied Council for Japan, said the week before Evatt arrived that he had seen nothing to indicate that the Japanese had taken their first step toward democracy.

But these differences were differences of opinion, of judgment. The fact remained that Great Britain would support the United States' policy toward Japan, a policy which realistically turns its back on emotionalism stemming from a long, hard war and judges the world as it is today.

In a nutshell that judgment has been that Japan cannot hurt us for a long time.

That does not mean that Japan will be given back to the Japanese as soon as the peace treaty is signed. Some sort of control will be Continued on Page Four

A VOTE FOR STORCH IS A VOTE FOR HIGH TAXES!

The tax issue is one of the biggest of those involved in the present campaign to elect a new Congressman for the Bucks-Lehigh District, at the Special Election being held September 9 in connection with the regular fall primaries.

The position of the Democratic candidate in this race is unmistakable.

So is that of the Republican candidate, Franklin H. Lichtenwalter.

A VOTE FOR STORCH IS A VOTE FOR HIGH TAXES!

Likewise: A VOTE FOR LICHTENWALTER IS A VOTE FOR TAX REDUCTIONS!

Four times this year the Republican membership in Congress has voted virtually unanimously to slash the heavy burden of the Federal income tax.

Had this succeeded, the families in the lower brackets would have been given tax relief amounting to $30 of every $100 they pay. Those of average means would have received $20 relief of each $100. Considerably smaller percentages would have been given those in the upper brackets.

The effect of such a tax reduction would have been threefold:

First, every family would have had a larger amount of its income left after taxes.

Second, prices would have fallen automatically, since all taxes show up eventually in retail prices—where else can they go?

Third, production in this country would have received its biggest "shot in the arm" in fifteen years. Private initiative depends on the profit motive. For years, profits have consistently disappeared in taxes. Hence the nationwide letdown in production. Cut taxes, and you encourage millions of small business men to open up or expand their operations.

But President Truman twice defeated the Republicans by an arbitrary veto of the tax relief for which the American people had voted at last November's elections.

TERRACE NINE ENTERS FINALS OF YOUTH LEAGUE

Joe De Paul Pitches 2-Hit Ball and Defeats Bell's Aces

FINAL SCORE IS 6 TO 1

Winners Scored Eight Hits Off Oliver Adams During The Game

With Joe DePaul pitching two-hit ball, the Bristol Terrace nine entered the finals of the Bristol Youth League by defeating the Bell's Aces, 6-1, yesterday afternoon on the Memorial Park field. Terrace will now play a five-game series with the Bristol Township team to determine the season's championship.

DePaul, who during the regular season was behind the plate for the Terrace team, changed his role into a moundsman yesterday and did an excellent job. The only hits off his delivery were singles by McDonald and Monte in the fourth and ninth innings, respectively. McDonald's hit was converted into the lone tally with the aid of an error. De Paul struck out ten batters.

The winners had eight hits off Oliver Adams and did most of their hitting in the pinches. They scored twice in the first inning with the aid of a single by DePaul and double by Cross. Another came over in the second, thanks to a two-bagger by "Bill" Wallick. In the fifth, the run number four was scored on two walks and a single by DePaul. In the following inning, a hit by Weida and an error made the fifth tally come over while the final marker was pushed over with the aid of a single from the bat of Braam.

Although, it committed four mis-plays, the Terrace boys gave DePaul fine support. It handled eighteen chances in the field. Bell's had one error charged against it, an error by Basco in the sixth inning.

ST. ANN'S TO PRACTICE

The St. Ann's A. A. gridders will hold another practice session this evening on Leedom's field, starting at 5:30 o'clock. All candidates are requested to be present. Yesterday morning, despite the inclement weather, 20 candidates reported to Coach "Mike" DeRisi and his assistant "Chick" Clarella. Many of the candidates are hold-overs from last season.

active Fascists from responsible positions. The Socialist party in France adopted a general policy report that puts Premier Ramadier and other party moderates in the minority. The Premier was not asked to resign, but resolutions voted by the party will make more difficult his task of compromising with the more conservative elements in his coalition Cabinet.

As Moscow continued to press the Russian Government for approval of oil concessions to Russia, it was rumored that Russian troops were massing near the border.

At the Inter-American Defense Conference in Brazil, a Bolivian proposal indicated that the smaller republics wanted a unified hemispheric military staff. Columbia announced she was in favor of deferring discussion of economic issues until the Bogota conference in January.

The American Iron and Steel Institute and 26 steel corporations producing 80 per cent of this country's steel ingots were accused yesterday of price-fixing in restraint of competition. The charge was made by the Federal Trade Commission, which declared that were it not for this "conspiracy" there would be "active and actual competition" in prices and related matters.

Russia Looms Big In Picture of Japan Today

maintained to make certain the peace treaty terms are fulfilled. The dominant thought now of methods of keeping Japan disarmed is that strict control of imports can keep Japan from reviving its military. The belief is that without imported oil, steel, rubber and other raw materials necessary to build a war machine Japan cannot rearm.

This type of control depends for effectiveness upon the strictest watch over ports of entry, plus anti-smuggling measures. Ever since the war ended there has been a smuggling trade between Japan and Korea, particularly.

Gen. MacArthur has said that the great bulk of the Japanese people have accepted the idea of democracy and that today they are the most peace loving people on earth.

He recognizes fully the efforts being made by reaction to pull Japan back onto its old line, but is firm in his faith that the people of Japan will repudiate these men, the type of men who led them into the "lost war."

He is certain that the new constitution, which grants wide individual liberties and renounces war, will work and that the Japanese people will accept its letter and spirit as the keystone of their new culture.

He is certain that the United States, with airbases on islands near Japan in the western Pacific, can protect Japan from invasion even though there are no armed installations within the country.

And, finally, Gen. MacArthur is certain that unless we move our troops out of Japan within a reasonable time there will be a reaction against us. The General never said it, but there is the possibility that if the Japanese become too irked with the task of supporting a foreign

AQUETONG, Aug. 18—Publication of Budd Schulberg's new novel, "The Harder They Fall," was celebrated at a cocktail party given by

FOR THE CHILD
My son Robert, a child of four years, had continual colds. They would start early in the Fall and last until late Spring. The eyes would water and then it would get down on the chest. He would cough so that I was up with him night after night. He finally grew so bad that I took him to Dr. Bond's office and after the first chiropractic treatment he seemed to respond and after a course of chiropractic treatments he was entirely free from colds. I certainly recommend Dr. Bond for helping children who are affected as my son Robert was.
